In 2016, the Pulaski County Quorum Court passed an ordinance providing county taxpayers the opportunity to contribute an additional $5 to their business or personal property tax payments. Funds contributed will go directly to the "Pulaski County Animal Control Spay and Neuter Fund." The purpose of the fund is to provide pet owners with financial assistance through a variety of methods, which may include:

- Financial vouchers (i.e. discounts) with animal shelters,

- Financial vouchers with partnering veterinary clinics,
- Special spay and neuter clinics organized, publicized and held throughout the various county communities, and
- Possible access to mobile spay and neuter clinics in target neighborhoods.
- Services will be limited to spay/neuter, vaccinations against preventable diseases and wellness screenings.

"We are proud to say that this fund is an expansion of our pilot program with 'Arkansans for Animals,'" said County Judge Barry Hyde. "Through this pilot program, significant strides have been accomplished toward controlling our stray pet population. Seeing its success provided evidence to support the ordinance that created the fund," he said.

Pulaski County residents have two options to GIVE 5: use the $5 voluntary tax payment coupon when paying by check or check the "animal control" box via the online payment system.

For questions about the Spay and Neuter Fund or the ordinance, call 501-340-8523 or visit <http://pulaskicountytreasurer.net/voluntary>.

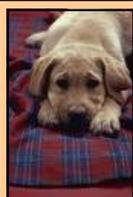

Consider adopting your next fur baby from our shelter.

Meet Bear. Bear was adopted 1-28-17. His estimated age is 10 years. When approached by his adopter, he was asleep and didn't budge until gently nudged by the Shelter Director. They later learned Bear is deaf.

Bear's story is the same as many other shelter animals. He was found wondering the streets, underweight and with a severe ear infection. Because of his age and lack of interest, he most likely would not have been adopted.

Special thanks to those who choose an older 'fur-baby' for their family.

Bear now lives in the country where he is receiving much love and being spoiled rotten. Bear's new family members include cats and horses and a cow next door. Ah, the good life!

North Little Rock Fire Department

North Little Rock Fire Chief James “Jim” Murphy died Saturday, March 18, 2017, due to complications from heart surgery. He was 65.

Chief Murphy spent the bulk of his four decades in fire service in Florida. In 2014, he left retirement and the state of Florida to take over the North Little Rock Fire Department.

Murphy spent many years at Orange County (Fla) Fire Rescue as a firefighter, paramedic, company officer and training officer. In retirement, he cofounded a pair of interactive training software programs for first responders.

In 2014, in an interview with the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette, Murphy said he had been offered jobs over the years, but something about North Little Rock stood out. “I actually had taught a [fire services] class [in North Little Rock] years ago and made some friends there,” Murphy said. “When I took a city tour, everyone I met was warm and friendly and just had that Southern Hospitality, and I fell in love with it. The research I did about the city and its school system told me that they are technologically ahead of a lot of communities.

For more than two years, Murphy oversaw a force of 182 in Pulaski County’s second-largest city. In addition to the standard firefighting operations, the North Little Rock Fire Department also houses a special operations response team, hazardous materials team and water rescue team.

“He was a great chief, but a better person,” Mayor Joe A. Smith said. “We’re grateful for the time he was able to be with our city.”

Chief Murphy was born March 12, 1952, in Valdosta, Georgia. He retired from the Orange County Florida Fire Department after 35 years of service. He worked as a nationally known trainer in the fire service. Chief Murphy served as a consultant to FEMA in the recovery after Hurricane Katrina. He helped develop software for the National Incident Management System.

Chief Murphy is survived by his wife of 42 years, Kit; daughters Laura Hebert (Jim) and Karen Warnock (Mike); four grandchildren; and two great-grandchildren and several siblings.

A service was held for Chief Murphy March 23, 2017 at Lakewood United Methodist Church.

Memorials may be made to the Arkansas Fallen Firefighters Memorial, PO Box 56470, Little Rock, AR 72115.

Use your tax refund wisely

It's tax time again — which for many Americans means that a tax refund is on its way. If you're going to get a refund this year, how can you use the money to your best advantage?

Of course, it's always tempting to spend the check from Uncle Sam on something fun. But a tax refund could be sizable — the average amount in 2016 was $2,857, according to the IRS — so putting this money to work could help boost your progress toward your financial goals.

Here are some possibilities for using your refund:

—Help fund your IRA. If you were to receive a tax refund of $2,857, you'd have slightly more than half of the $5,500 annual IRA contribution limit for 2017, although, if you are 50 or older, you can contribute an extra $1,000. Consequently, you may find it much easier to fully fund your IRA for the year — and you should do exactly that, because an IRA is a great retirement savings vehicle. If you have a traditional IRA, your contributions may be fully or partially deductible, depending on your income, while your earnings can grow tax deferred. (Taxes are due upon withdrawal, and withdrawals prior to age 59½ may be subject to a 10 percent IRS penalty.) With a Roth IRA, your contributions are not tax deductible, but your earnings are distributed tax-free, provided you don't start taking withdrawals until you're 59½ and you've had your account for at least five years.

—Help diversify your portfolio. If a market downturn hits one asset class, and that's where you keep most of your money, you could take a big hit. Owning an array of investments — such as stocks, bonds, certificates of deposit, and so on — can help prepare your portfolio to weather the effects of market volatility. By adding new investments, or increasing your holdings of existing investments, you may be able to further diversify your portfolio — and you can use your refund for this purpose. (Keep in mind, though, that diversification, by itself, can't guarantee profits or protect against loss.)

—Contribute to a 529 plan. If you have children or grandchildren whom you'd like to help send to college, consider using your tax refund to help fund a 529 plan. Your 529 plan contributions may be deductible from your state taxes, and your earnings are distributed tax-free, provided they are used for qualified higher education expenses. (However, withdrawals not used for higher education expenses may be subject to both income tax and a 10 percent penalty.)

—Pay off some debts. You can improve your financial picture by reducing your debt load — but it may make sense to prioritize these debts. For example, rather than make an extra mortgage payment, you might want to first tackle those debts or loans that carry a high interest rate and that don't allow you to deduct interest payments. After all, your monthly mortgage payment will remain the same even if you make an extra payment, but if you can get rid of some smaller debts, you will free up some cash that you could use to invest in your future.

—Think carefully about how to use your tax refund. It represents an opportunity that you won't want to waste.

What's smarter—paying off debts or investing?

If you're just starting out in your career, you will need to be prepared to face some financial challenges along the way — but here's one that's not unpleasant: choosing what to do with some extra disposable income. When this happens, what should you do with the money? Your decisions could make a real difference to your ability to achieve your important financial goals.

Under what circumstance might you receive some “found” money? You could get a year-end bonus from your employer, or a sizable tax refund, or even an inheritance. However, the money comes to you, don't let it “slip through your fingers.” Instead, consider these two moves: investing the money or using it to pay off debts.

Which of these choices should you pick? There's no one “right” answer, as everyone's situation is different. But here are a few general considerations:

—Distinguish between “good” and “bad” debt. Not all types of debt are created equal. Your mortgage, for example, is probably a “good” form of debt. You're using the loan for a valid purpose — i.e., living in your house — and you likely get a hefty tax deduction for the interest you pay. On the other hand, nondeductible consumer debt that carries a high interest rate might be considered “bad” debt — and this is the debt you might want to reduce or eliminate when you receive some extra money. By doing so, you can free up money to save and invest for retirement or other goals.

—Compare making extra mortgage payment vs. investing. Many of us get some psychological benefits by making extra house payments. Yet, when you do have some extra money, putting it toward your house may not be the best move. For one thing, as mentioned above, your mortgage can be considered a “good” type of debt, so you may not need to rush to pay it off. Continued on next page...

And for an investment standpoint, your home is somewhat “illiquid” — it’s not always easy to get money out of it. If you put your extra money into traditional investments, such as stocks and bonds, you may increase your growth potential, and you may gain an income stream through interest payments and dividends.

—Consider tax advantages of investing. Apart from your mortgage, your other debts likely won’t provide you with any tax benefits. But you can get tax advantages by putting money into certain types of investment vehicles, such as a traditional or Roth IRA. When you invest in a traditional IRA, your contributions may be deductible, depending on your income, and your money grows on a tax-deferred basis. (Keep in mind that taxes will be due upon withdrawals, and any withdrawal you make before you reach 59½ may be subject to a 10% IRS penalty.) Roth IRA contributions are not deductible, but your earnings are distributed tax-free, provided you don’t take withdrawals until you reach 59½ and you’ve had your account at least five years.

Clearly, you’ve got some things to ponder when choosing whether to use “extra” money to pay off debts or invest. Of course, it’s not always an “either-or” situation; you may be able to tackle some debts and still invest for the future. In any case, use this money wisely—you weren’t necessarily counting on it, but you can make it count for you.

Making the most of seasonal allergies

Found in March 2017 City & Town

The official publication of the Arkansas Municipal League

By Chelsey J. Smith, M.D.

With trees and flowers blooming in an array of beautiful colors, the days getting longer and the temperatures getting warmer, spring is one of the most anticipated times of the year.

Still, for many it’s nothing to look forward to as it marks a season of itchy, watery eyes, runny noses, congestion, and sneezing. Many of these issues are caused by the return of pollen, a major springtime allergen.

Left untreated and unaddressed, seasonal allergies can cause quite a disturbance in your daily life. However, there are precautions and treatments you can take to help diminish your symptoms.

Daily saline rinses are important

Saline rinses help flush allergens you breathe, keeping your nasal passages clear and providing relief from your allergies. They also keep your nasal mucous membrane moist, helping you avoid nosebleeds from your nasal passages getting too dry.

It’s best to complete saline rinses using a NeilMed bottle in place of a neti pot. The bottle creates propulsion, pushing the saline into your sinus cavities as well as your nasal cavities. This more effectively flushes the allergens from your nose, providing better alleviation.

Neti pots are not necessarily bad; however they are dependent on gravity and don’t usually provide the same results as a NeilMed bottle. Imagine a race between two boats in which one is propelled by oars and the other is motorized.

Steroid nasal sprays are also a wonderful defense against allergies. The spray interrupts the kinds of cells that control your reaction to allergens. It can decrease the level of those cells and, unlike other treatment options like an antihistamine, it has a prolonged effectiveness.

Be prepared

If you are susceptible to allergies when you’re outdoors for an extended period — whether for a walk or hike or to do yard work — be prepared. Try taking an antihistamine beforehand and be sure to do a saline rinse before and after.

For yard work, it’s always best to wear a mask. This helps prevent you from directly inhaling many allergens and can lessen some of the symptoms.

Allergies, common cold, and sinusitis: knowing the difference

It’s fairly common for my patients to have trouble differentiating between a sinus infection, allergies, and the common cold. Many of these symptoms can be similar, including drainage and congestion. However, each condition has some unique features.

With allergies, you’ll usually see clear drainage and nasal congestion, along with itchy, watery eyes, and in some cases, hives. These symptoms will also continue for as long as the allergen is present.

With the common cold, the drainage can be yellow and you'll normally have other issues like fatigue and a low-grade fever. It's also normal for symptoms to go away within a couple of weeks.

For a sinus infection, there are three main symptoms: green or yellow drainage, nasal congestions, and facial pain or pressure. If these symptoms persist for more than seven to 10 days, it's time to talk with your doctor about possible antibiotic treatment.

Much of the confusion for my patients is between sinus infection and allergies. There is a link between the two, as allergy issues can be coupled with recurrent or chronic sinus infection. Swelling in the nasal cavity as a result of allergies can congest the tiny windows that drain your sinus cavities, causing bacterial infection and sinusitis.

Take action

Allergy problems can be quite a nuisance if left untreated. Instead of enjoying all that springtime has to offer, whether it's a hike in the woods, a walk in the park, or a picnic with family and friends, the symptoms can leave you miserable and desperate for relief. Talking with your physician about the proper treatment method is incredibly beneficial. Most options only add a few minutes to your daily routine and can greatly lessen the effects of your allergies.

Since 1917, Lions clubs have offered people the opportunity to give something back to their communities. From involving members in projects as local as cleaning up an area park or as far reaching as bringing sight to the world's blind, Lions clubs have always embraced those committed to building a brighter future for their community.
